

Anna Brander

Summary

I'm a Front-End Engineer with a strong background in React, Flutter, and TypeScript who is passionate about building easy to use applications and websites that adapt to the ever changing world of technology. I love working with data to test and refine features to create the best user-experience possible. In the past I've worked with teams both in person and remotely across time zones, collaborating to deliver products in fast-paced, experimental environments to meet our clients' needs. I'm excited to keep pushing boundaries and creating products that users and clients love.
